

WILSON WARNS THE CALIFORNIA SOLONS

In Telegram to Legislature
He Tells Them Question
Involves National Honor

FEDERAL SUPPORT FOR JAPANESE

If Discriminatory Anti-
Alien Bill Is Passed U. S.
Will Help in Attack
in Courts

WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Wilson said the final word of the administration so far as the California-Japanese question is concerned in the following telegram addressed today to Governor Herman Johnson and the presiding officers of both houses of that state's legislature:

President's Wire

"I speak on the assumption, which I am sure is well founded, that the people of California do not desire their representatives—and that their representatives do not wish or intend—in any circumstances to embarrass the government of the United States in its dealings with a nation with whom it has most earnestly and cordially sought to maintain relations of genuine friendship and good will and that least of all do they desire to do anything that might impair treaty obligations or cast a doubt upon the honor and good faith of the nation and its government.

"I therefore appeal with the utmost confidence to the people, the governor and the legislature of California, to act in the matter now under consideration in a manner that cannot from any point of view be fairly challenged or called in question.

"If they deem it necessary to exclude all aliens who have not declared their intention to become citizens from the privileges of land ownership, they can do so along lines already followed in the laws of many of the other states and of foreign countries, including Japan herself. Invidious discrimination will inevitably draw in question the treaty obligations of the government of the United States.

Involves National Honor

"I register my very earnest and respectful protest against discrimination in this case, not only because I deem it my duty to do so as the chief executive of the nation, but also, and the more readily, because I believe that the people and the legislative authorities of California will generously respond to the moment the matter is frankly presented to them as a question of national policy and as a question of national honor. If they have ignored this point of view it is, I am sure, because they did not realize what and how much was involved.

U. S. Will Aid Japan

The federal government will aid Japan in a court action to declare unconstitutional any law passed in California which specifically makes aliens "ineligible to citizenship" and incapable of land ownership or leasing.

Ask U. S. to Keep Out

A fervent appeal for continuation of a "hands off" policy in the California-Japan situation, was made to President Wilson by Representatives Raper, Kettner and Church of that state today.

As spokesman of the delegation, Raper told the president that the present situation far eclipsed the Chinese situation which finally resulted in the Chinese exclusion law.

He said that the Japanese in many of their settlements throughout the state had copied the methods which prevailed in old Chinatown in San Francisco before the earthquake. They have honeycombed the earth with tunnels running from one building to another and a certain percentage of the Japanese, he alleged, are promoting a widespread white slave traffic.

Asks for Figures

Raper's arguments were carefully listened to by the president and he asked Californians to produce statistics and figures which they have in their possession to bear out their contentions. They will see the president again tomorrow on this subject.

Confusion in Senate

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 22.—The legislation pending in the senate for the exclusion of aliens from the ownership of land is in a state of utter chaos today. How much debate will be required and how many amendments will be attached to the measure before a final vote is reported it is impossible to forecast.

With the assembly bill under consideration in the upper house, at least three sets of amendments are awaiting a bitter fight is expected. How many such amendments will be introduced before the bill is put into shape for the roll call nobody in the senate will attempt to predict.

CONFESSES MURDER THEN LOSES MEMORY

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 22.—Declaring he was George Taylor, one of the murderers of the Meeks family in north-west Missouri, in 1892, a man walked into the police station today and gave himself up. An hour later he professed not to know where he was and maintained this attitude through a long questioning by police heads.

"I cannot stand it any longer," he said, when he walked into the station. "I've got to give myself up. I guess you'll know who I am when I tell you my name is George Taylor."

He seemed surprised when the desk sergeant did not recognize the name, and said: "Why, my brother Bill and I killed the whole Meeks family in Osage county in 1892 and were sentenced to hang. I escaped a few days before the hanging and Bill was hung."

An hour later he said his memory had disappeared.

MILK DEALER IS CLEARED BY JURY

Health Department Loses
Case Against Nels Jensen, Owner of Dairy

ACCUSED OF UNSANITARY METHODS

Photographs Showing the Cows Covered with Dirt
Introduced as Evidence

Nels Jensen, the milk dealer running a dairy at 2525 Mormon Coulee road who was accused by the La Crosse Health department of keeping his milk cows and barn in an unsanitary condition, was found not guilty by the jury late yesterday afternoon. The jury was out about fifteen minutes when the verdict was reached.

The case attracted considerable attention in that it was the first of its kind ever taken into court by the health department of this city and was considered something of a test of the powers of the department to enforce sanitary rules. The court room was filled with men engaged in the milk business and customers of the Jensen dairy.

Several witnesses were called to the stand in the trial. Dr. J. M. Furstman, health commissioner, and Health Officer Anthony M. Murphy, being the principal witnesses for the prosecution, while Attorney William Wolfe for the defense depended chiefly on the testimony of his client, Nels Jensen. Several photographs taken in the interior of the Jensen cow barn, showing cows covered with filth, were introduced as evidence that the barn and cows were not kept clean.

Dr. Furstman testified that he and Health Officer Murphy had repeatedly warned Jensen to clean up without avail and that the milk sold from the dairy was a menace to the health of his customers. District Attorney D. S. Law endeavored to introduce several photographs of other dairies in the county to show the contrast between clean barns and that owned by Jensen but Judge John Brindley upheld the objections of the defense.

When called to the stand Jensen testified that he had purchased several of his milk cows but a short time before the health department tests were made and that he was unable to remove the dirt with which they were covered when he bought them. He declared that it would be necessary to wait until the animals shed their hair before they could be properly cleaned. He maintained that he had done everything in his power to comply with the orders of the health department but that he was short of help and could not afford to hire more men because he had recently bought the business. His testimony that he cleaned out the barn twice a day was corroborated by Emil Olson, a neighbor.

Attorney Wolfe made a strong argument for the defendant before the jury declaring that a verdict of guilty would mean the virtual destruction of Jensen's means of making a living.

RACE 100 MILES IN NEW YORK STREETS

Auto Pursued by Police
Motorcycle and Private Car Dashes at High Speed Through City

WANTED FOR STRIKING WOMEN

Only Caught when Front Wheels Collapse After Three Hour Running
Fight

NEW YORK, April 22.—Roaring through the streets of the upper west side, with an occasional burst of Vanderbilt cup speed, a low built racing automobile was run to earth early today after a continuous chase of three hours in which a motorcycle policeman led a fleet of private cars.

The pursued machine, driven by its owner, William Gohlhaus, an auto dealer, had struck and knocked down three women who were crossing Fifth avenue at 113th street. The accident was witnessed by three men in another motor car and they started the pursuit in which Motorcycle Policeman Ochsenhirt almost immediately joined.

Dramatic Chase

The chase was the most dramatic ever known in this city. Up into the open spaces near Van Cortlandt park and back into the swarming streets of the upper west side the big six cylinder car whirled, cut out open and its exhausts roaring and spitting flame like a cup racer. Doggedly Ochsenhirt hung on the trail, about two short blocks behind. His cycle was good for 55 miles an hour and he said he had it going at top notch.

Steering with one hand, the policeman loaded and reloaded his revolver and emptied it but with no effect. A little girl sitting at a basement window received a painful flesh wound from one wild bullet and several windows were broken and heads barely missed by the shots. The whole upper section of the city was on the street to watch the sport.

Car after car got in line of the chase, each with a policeman hanging on the running board blowing his whistle to get the right of way or taking long distance shots at the flying quarry. But the pace began to tell and the number of pursuers slowly dwindled towards midnight until finally there were only Ochsenhirt and his still faithful motorcycle and the three men who had started the pursuit.

Quarry Collapses

After more than 100 miles of city streets had been covered Ochsenhirt found himself the only pursuer. Slowly he drew in on his quarry and finally far up town the pursued machine's front wheels collapsed and the car flopped into a ditch. One of its occupants fled but the other two, Gohlhaus and his chauffeur, were arrested. The three women Gohlhaus' car had knocked down were taken to a hospital. One had a broken arm and the other two were badly bruised.

TOMAH MAN KILLS SELF WITH ACID

Edward Gasper Is Found Dead in Bed After Drinking Carbolic
Acid

TOMAH, Wis., April 22.—(Special.)—Edward Gasper, a young man whose parents reside on a farm three miles west of Tomah, was found dead in his bed in the Central hotel at an early hour this morning. Gasper, who was 27 years of age, was employed as a laborer in the bridge yard. Last night he purchased a bottle of carbolic acid at a local drug store, and coming down the street, bade his brother-in-law, Dr. Schourich, goodbye. He told Dr. Schourich it was the last time he would see him as he "had the stuff to do it with." Dr. Schourich telephoned Mr. Jahn, the proprietor of the hotel where young Gasper boarded, to look out for him as he contemplated suicide. By this time Gasper had said "good-bye" to those in the hotel and had gone to his room. Later Mr. Jahn went up stairs and finding the door locked, concluded that Gasper had retired and did not force an entrance until this morning. The city attorney, on hearing the facts, decided that an inquest was unnecessary. Funeral arrangements will be made later.

TO OPERATE FOR CRIME

KANSAS CITY, April 22.—Harry Morris, 22, prisoner in the county jail, who believes that an injury suffered seven years ago caused him to lead a life of crime, will be subjected to an X-ray examination. If the photograph shows any pressure on the brain, the skull will be raised.

WALKER FUNERAL TOMORROW

The funeral of Frank S. Walker, who died yesterday morning at 7 o'clock, will be held tomorrow afternoon from his home, 317 South Eighth street, at 2:30. Rev. W. E. Johnson will officiate. Interment will be made in Oak Grove cemetery.

FORGETTER NEARLY LOSES HIS BRIDE

NEW YORK, April 22.—Jas. W. Phillips, a wealthy mining man of Denver, Col., nearly lost his bride today because of being absentminded. Arriving at the Hoboken pier to start for Europe on a honeymoon, Phillips discovered that he had left his money and tickets at his hotel. He left Mrs. Phillips on board the steamer while he hustled back to the hotel in a taxi. He released the cab, and when starting back had forgotten the name of the boat he was sailing on. By the time the chauffeur located the pier of the North German Lloyd line, the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse was starting down the bay and Mrs. Phillips was standing at the rail shouting for "Jimmy! Jimmy!" at the top of her voice.

A tug overhauled the liner at quarantine and Phillips joined his bride.

4,000 CHILDREN OUT ON STRIKE

Pittsburgh Schools Half
Emptied in Protest
Against Superintendent Heeter

MOTHERS PICKET THE BUILDINGS

School Board Head Declares
Movement Is Financed by Heeter's
Enemies

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 22.—Down town traffic was blocked today by hundreds of parading school children, striking as a protest against the continuation in office of Superintendent of Schools S. L. Heeter, who resumed his duties after a leave of absence which he had requested until acquitted of charges made against him by a pretty 18 year old housemaid. It was estimated 4,000 are striking and that 35 schools are affected.

Small Girl Killed

A four year old girl, attempting to join a line of children marchers, was struck and instantly killed by a car during the morning.

At several points over the city this morning and last night Heeter was hanged in effigy.

About town mothers who had kept their own children from attending school, did picket duty and tried to prevent others from entering. Many schools where the membership ran to 500 or higher reported more than half of the pupils absent and in some instances the schools were closed.

At recess time many broke away and joined the marchers.

Mob Heeter's Office

Before Superintendent Heeter had reached his office several hundred strikers fairly mobbed the Fulton building, attempting to break into the offices, but were forced back by office employees.

President David E. Oliver of the school board, made the following statement: "This is an organized and financed movement to down the school board and drive Heeter out. To me it is unthinkable that a man in the position and with the responsibility that Dr. Heeter has would be guilty of such conduct as is rumored about him."

STRIKERS AT FUNERAL

PATERSON, N. J., April 22.—A great demonstration of the striking silk mill workers was planned here today when 25,000 members of the I. W. W. will march from St. Michael's Roman Catholic church to the cemetery to attend the burial of Antonio Valonia. Valonia was shot and killed by a policeman three days ago. He was a striker.

GOVERNOR MAY END YEAR NINE STRIKE

Hatfield of West Virginia to Lay Proposals Before
Cabin Creek
Miners

STRIKE NOT FOR BETTER PAY

Long Trouble Began When Men Were Denied the Right to Organize

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 22.—When the bituminous coal miners met here today to try to settle the year's strike in the Paint Creek and Cabin Creek districts, it was not "Governor" Henry D. Hatfield to whom they listened respectfully, but "Doctor" Hatfield, the man whom they have known for more than eighteen years.

The miners' convention was called to order for the doctor-governor to present his peace proposals to the men. After many meetings, the men's leaders were unable to get together on Governor Hatfield's proposition, and it was decided to put it up to the men themselves. Governor Hatfield, in his efforts to bring about a settlement of the agitation that has torn West Virginia for a year, has applied his old-time doctor methods. He has not tried statesmanship on the labor trouble, but has "diagnosed" the disagreement with the result that it was freely predicted today that the men would adopt his "remedy."

Like the men in the great industrial strike now on in Belgium, the Paint and Cabin creek miners are not striking for a matter of wages and hours. They are striking for their "rights." They were forbidden to organize. They declared they would organize, and as a result of their determination they have been idle twelve months, their district has been three times under martial law and something like 100 men, miners, guards and militiamen, have been killed.

LEVIATHAN STUCK IN MUD

HAMBURG, April 22.—The Hamburg-American leviathan Imperator, being towed out for her trial trip, today became unmanageable, broke away from the six tugs, swung around crosswise of the river and brought up hard and fast in the mud. Her monster tonnage carried the Imperator far into the mud bank and all efforts to dislodge her proved unavailing. The six tugs, after working for several hours, were reinforced with others, but their combined efforts were unsuccessful.

WILSON GREET'S TEAM

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Like a dyed-in-the-wool fan, President Wilson will be on hand this afternoon to welcome the home ball team on its own grounds.

SENSATIONS SEEN IN COAST PROBE

Vice Investigator Says the Truth of Los Angeles
Conditions Will Rival Tales
of Rome

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 22.—"When the truth of the Los Angeles white slave traffic is out, it will rival the tales of ancient Rome and of the clubs that are said to exist at the present day in London and Paris."

This is what Detective Edward King, chief vice investigator here, declared today in discussing the closures that had resulted from his probing. The whole state of California will be amazed at the revelations, he said.

Twenty persons have been subpoenaed to appear tomorrow at the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Josie Rosenberg, charged with pandering. These include George M. Bixby, a Long Beach, Cal., millionaire. The police have asked for a warrant for a millionaire known as "Black Pearl," but it has not been issued yet.

SEARCH IN WISCONSIN

CHICAGO, April 22.—The search for Katherine Winters, nine year old girl kidnapped from her home at New Castle, Ind., March 20, reached into the state of Wisconsin today. T. A. Smith, Chicago traveling salesman, told the police he saw a girl answering the description of Katherine riding on the front seat of a gypsy wagon at Gratiot, Wis., last Saturday. The Chicago police notified the Darlington, Wis., authorities and they began searching for the gypsy caravan.

CONFER ON DEMANDS

NEW YORK, April 22.—The first conference between representatives of the railway trainmen and conductors employed on the 54 eastern roads and the managers of the roads was held here today.

ACTOR KILLS SELF WHEN LAUGHS FAIL

CHICAGO, April 22.—Coroner Hoffman will hold an inquest late today into the sudden death of Cliff Gordon, a comedian who was known the country over as the "German Senator," and who was part owner of several burlesque companies operating under name of Gordon and North.

Gordon followed Mme. Sarah Bernhardt on the bill at a vaudeville house yesterday afternoon. For many years he has been Chicago audiences shake with laughter at his jokes. This time the audience was unmoved. "It's no use," he said to Lyman Glover, manager of the theater. "You can't make 'em laugh just after Bernhardt's made 'em cry."

The comedian failed to respond to the bell at the night performance. Theater attaches attaches telephoned to his hotel. A bell boy broke in the door and found him dead on the bed. A physician found he had taken about sixty grains of a cure for colds.

EXCITING CHASE IN POLICE AUTO

Alleged Thief Caught at River Junction After Escaping on Train

ACCUSED OF STEALING SHOES

Short Change Artists Nabbed; Two Sentenced to the County Jail

A record run of the police automobile today resulted in the capture of John Callan just as he swung from the Dubuque train of the Milwaukee at River Junction. Callan had escaped from Patrolmen Alois Yehle and August Koschitzke a short time before by sprinting to the North side railroad station and climbing onto the train which was going nearly full speed. The patrolmen captured his comrade John J. Hall and then telephoned to central station. The automobile was at once sent in pursuit and arrived in River Junction shortly before the train pulled in. Chief of Police John Webber and Detective Joseph McGrath were on hand to nab their man as he sprang from the train. He again tried to escape when he saw the police at the junction but was overtaken and bundled into the waiting auto.

Callan and Hall were arrested on complaint of Christ O. Dahl, proprietor of a shoe store at 1113 Gillette street, who alleges that the two men were in his place of business yesterday examining some shoes and that shortly after they left several pairs of shoes were missing. The men are said to have sold some shoes to persons on the North side and in a restaurant on the South side. They carried the shoes, which are all new, in a suit case.

When sighted by the police they had returned to the North side and were several blocks from the railroad station. As soon as they saw the police they took to their heels and the speed of Callan enabled him to make a safe getaway, until the auto was brought into service. They will be arraigned tomorrow on a charge of larceny.

John Davis, Elwood, Ind., and Frank Miller, St. Louis, were picked up by the police last night for an alleged attempt to "short change" Reinhold Schultz.

Christ Haley, who says he came here from Winona a few weeks ago, was sentenced to sixty days in the county jail late yesterday afternoon by Judge John Brindley on being found guilty of larceny. He is said to have grabbed a twenty dollar bill from Iven Ellensen while he was counting a roll of money in a saloon on North Fourth street.

Harry Lewis, a boarder in the home of Mrs. Deratta Elgar, 2027 Kane street, was arraigned in county court today on a charge of assault. He was accused of attacking the landlady and choking her because she garnished his wages for a board bill. He was convicted and sentenced to thirty days in the county jail.

ILLINOIS SOLONS CANNY

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 22.—The two new senators from Illinois who came here today prepared to speak tomorrow at the centennial celebration of the birth of Stephen A. Douglas, exhibited much caution when approached regarding tariff legislation.

"I feel that I should not express my opinion at this time," said Senator Sherman. "There is some difference of opinion regarding the sugar, wool and cotton schedules. I am studying the bill very carefully."

"I am studying the tariff and trying to learn the sentiment of Illinois," Lewis said.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Sounding the keynote of the democratic tariff revision program, the fourteen democrats of the house ways and means committee who framed the Wilson-Underwood bill, today submitted their report to the house. That trusts and monopolies—a "hothouse growth" of high protective tariff policies—have thrived under the republican regime and that a "competitive tariff to reduce the high cost of living is imperative," were the first shots fired at the republicans in the democratic report. The Payne-Aldrich law, although not designated by name, is denounced in the report in caustic terms. The democrats give the following construction to the tariff revision pledge of the Baltimore convention:

Construction of Pledge

"We believe this pledge contains two essential ideas—the establishment of duties designed primarily to produce revenue without thought of protection, and the attainment of this end by legislation that will not injure or destroy legitimate industry."

The democrats estimate that annual receipts under the Wilson-Underwood bill will aggregate $326,000,000 and expenses $994,790,000 with the deficit of $668,790,000 to be cared for by the income tax. They have provided, however, for a revenue of $70,125,000 from the income upon 425,000 incomes.

Hit Payne Tariff

"Expectation of redress was blasted by the tariff act of 1909. This measure, if anything, made conditions worse. It brought no real reduction and resulted in some advances, due largely to reclassifications which concealed the real rates.

"There are deplorable conditions in the present economic system in many instances directly assignable to the tariff. This could not be otherwise in view of the long continued high protection and the peculiar

YESTERDAY'S WORK IN THE LEGISLATURE

Senate

MADISON, Wis., April 22.—(Special.)—Without a word except the reading of the titles and the senate's response by way of action, the upper house of the legislature last night put through forty bills, most of them assembly measures. One of the most important bills acted upon was the bill by Senator Stevens providing for an habitual criminals act, a measure long advocated by the state board of control.

The assembly bills ordered to third reading by the senate included the following:
Hansen: In case of accident resulting in death, the nearest kin of deceased may begin action for damages without appointment of a special administrator.
Goff: Providing that thirty days' notice must be given to a town or village in case of injury because of defects in highways.

Vint: For the improvement of inner harbors and in aid of navigation.

Hall-Judson: Increasing jurisdiction of the Waukesha county municipal courts.

Schnitzel: Permitting insurance companies to insure their own officers and agents upon approval by 80 per cent of the stockholders.

Holmes: Giving state railroad commission reasonable time to value the plant of a public utility corporation to be purchased by a municipality.

Holmes: Requiring the display of national flags over voting booths.

Roessler: Abolishing the quinquennial state census.

Hurlbut: Giving railroad companies power to reduce their capital stock.

The following bills were non-curred in:

Smart: Giving telephone companies in Milwaukee the right to collect charges only thirty days in advance.

Johnson-Axel: Providing for instruction in co-operation and co-operative methods at the university.

Hoverson: Relating to the boundary of the joint free high school district of the city of Kewaunee.

The senate concurred in the McComb bill increasing the jurisdiction of the municipal court of Brown county and of the city of Green Bay; the Hansen bill prohibiting the storing of explosives near dwelling houses; the Nye bill empowering the grain and warehouse commission to weigh coal in carload lots at Superior; the Rosa bill permitting towns or municipalities to take over neglected cemeteries; and the Senator Monk bill prescribing the width of sleighs to be manufactured in Wisconsin in the future.

The assembly last night placed its disapproval on the practice of fortune telling in Wisconsin by advancing the Carpenter bill; decided that circuit and supreme court judges are too well paid to merit pensioning, and killed a bill to change the time for holding the general primary election from the fall to the date of the regular spring election.

A measure of large importance to northern Wisconsin development was favored when the house ordered to engrossment the Nye bill to authorize counties to issue bonds for the construction and maintenance of highways.

The Hedding bill fixing the penalty for desertion of wife or children at three years' imprisonment, with a bread and water diet at the discretion of the judge, was attacked by Assemblyman Hood of La Crosse, who said the latter feature smacked of the days of the inquisition. Judge Rosa said doctors are authority for saying that such a diet is not harmful but healthy, and that its infliction on wife deserters often served as an effective punishment. Vint opposed the bill on the ground that it was wrong to turn such men over to the state for their exploitation by private companies at prison labor. The bill was killed.

Under the Hansen bill as finally passed last night, compensation of members of county boards will be $3 as at present, but counties have the option to pay $4 per day.

The assembly concurred in a senate amendment to the Dolan resolution calling for a report of income tax data by May 1.

The Hurlbut bill licensing auctioneers was killed. Third reading was ordered for Senator Scott's bill admitting and licensing Lloyds, insurers and reciprocal insurance companies. The Conway bill allowing the garnishment of city and state employees was passed after a debate.

Liberty Bell's Last Peal.

On the morning of June 8, 1835, the Liberty bell, which for a century had been Philadelphia's greatest instrument for showing joy or grief, was being tolled for Chief Justice John Marshall.

On that occasion it was badly cracked. But, broken as it was, the bell was afterward rung on great occasions, although the tones were but sorry reminders of the once powerful sound. So it happened that on Washington's birthday, 1843, the old bell was once again tolled in joy. At that time, however, the previous crack became so wide that the tones were completely broken. It was never rung again after that day.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Porseverance.

You will see issuing from the walls of the same college—nay, sometimes from the bosom of the same family—two young men of whom the one shall be admitted to be a genius of high order, the other scarcely above the point of mediocrity, yet you shall see the genius sinking and perishing in poverty, obscurity and wretchedness, while, on the other hand, you shall observe the mediocre plodding his slow but sure way up the hill of life, gaining steadfast footing at every step and mounting at length to eminence and distinction, an ornament to his family, a blessing to his country. Now, whose work is this? Manifestly their own.—William Wirt.

Extremes.

A TEN CENT BOX OF "CASCARETS"

Insures you against Headache, Biliousness, Constipation or a Bad Stomach.

Put aside—just once—the Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oils or purgative waters which merely force a passageway through the bowels, but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage or alimentary organs, and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach.

Keep your inside organs pure and fresh with Cascarets, which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, coated tongue, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.

Liberty Bell's Last Peal.

On the morning of June 8, 1835, the Liberty bell, which for a century had been Philadelphia's greatest instrument for showing joy or grief, was being tolled for Chief Justice John Marshall.

On that occasion it was badly cracked. But, broken as it was, the bell was afterward rung on great occasions, although the tones were but sorry reminders of the once powerful sound. So it happened that on Washington's birthday, 1843, the old bell was once again tolled in joy. At that time, however, the previous crack became so wide that the tones were completely broken. It was never rung again after that day.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Porseverance.

You will see issuing from the walls of the same college—nay, sometimes from the bosom of the same family—two young men of whom the one shall be admitted to be a genius of high order, the other scarcely above the point of mediocrity, yet you shall see the genius sinking and perishing in poverty, obscurity and wretchedness, while, on the other hand, you shall observe the mediocre plodding his slow but sure way up the hill of life, gaining steadfast footing at every step and mounting at length to eminence and distinction, an ornament to his family, a blessing to his country. Now, whose work is this? Manifestly their own.—William Wirt.

Extremes.

DRAINAGE TO SOLVE BIG FARM PROBLEM

W. E. Spreiter of La Crosse Agricultural School Advocates Reclamation of Lowlands

VALUE OF LAND IS INCREASED

Cost of Improvement Justified by Results; Permanent Drains Urged

W. E. Spreiter of the La Crosse County School of Agriculture made surveys and plans of a drainage system for W. I. Smith's farm about two miles out of West Salem last Saturday. Speaking of the benefits of drainage today, Mr. Spreiter said:

"Those fields which are now too wet to get onto with horses and machinery will be made as valuable as any in the county, as soon as the surplus water is taken care of."

"There are thousands of acres in this county that should be tiled, and the sooner it is done the better. There are also many ponds that have no natural outlet which can very readily be drained with the vertical drain system. In most cases where the latter system has been installed the results are quite satisfactory."

For Small Ponds

"A tile system well installed should not be looked upon as an expenditure, but rather as an investment, that will give in return enormous dividends."

Benefits of Drainage

"The benefits accruing from drainage are well illustrated in the improvement of a small farm of 72.89 acres, recently purchased by the state of Minnesota. Six hundred and fifteen dollars were spent in draining this farm the land had been bought by the state for the specific purpose of cultivation. The 72.89 acres cost $7,653.45. Out of this area there was used for highway purposes four acres, non-productive land in sloughs, five acres, ten acres producing half a crop, equal, in non-productive land, to five acres, or a total of fourteen non-tillable acres. This left a tillable area of fifty-nine acres, costing the state $129.72 per acre. A system of under-draining was introduced, by which the five acres of non-productive land in sloughs and the ten acres which produced half a crop, are made equal in productive qualities to the same area of the other tillable land."

"The total cultivable area is thus increased from fifty-nine to sixty-nine acres. The return to the farm, then, is $1297.20, at a cost of $615, or a net gain of $672.20. In other words, ten additional acres have been added to the farm, at a cost of only $61.50 per acre, against $129.72 per acre, paid for tillable land in the original purchase. But this added value of $682.20 does not represent all the benefits which have come to the farm from the introduction of under-drainage. The disappearance of the sloughs, and of the superfluous water in other places, permits the division of the land into regular, and therefore more easily cultivated fields. Such fields, having now a uniform soil, can be cultivated in less time and crop rotations can be arranged to better advantage, than where the land is broken up by non-cultivable areas. A dry, loose soil can be worked more easily than a wet, sticky soil."

"A field, which in some seasons is productive, and in others non-productive by reason of excessive moisture, may be more detrimental to the farmer's success than swamp land; for such lands are often plowed, planted, cultivated and then the crop is destroyed by an influx of water, whereby not only are they made non-productive, but labor and seed are lost. Drainage not only removes the risk of such losses, but improves the landscape by substituting broad, fully cultivated areas for such as are dotted with sloughs, breeding frogs and mosquitoes and giving forth ill odors from dead fish and decaying vegetation. It is a first step in good road building; and, as a permanent improvement, it increases the value of all neighboring lands, and benefits the entire community."

"All of these benefits are illustrated in hundreds of cases in Wisconsin and the farmers should feel that they fully justify the cost of the improvement without considering the value of the land reclaimed."

Almost any mother would gladly lend her neighbor's baby to the domestic science department for school girls to practice on.

Get Rid of That Tired Feeling

(Medical News.)

"That drowsy, tired, worn-out feeling which most of us have at the approach of warm weather comes from the poisoned impurities in the blood which generally leads to sickness or poor health. At the first signs of spring a good, blood-purifying tonic should be taken by every member of the family."

"The expense of making such a tonic will be small if one gets from the drug store 1/2 pint alcohol and 1 ounce karene, then mix these with 1/2 cupful sugar, adding hot water to make a quart. A tablespoonful taken before meals will soon clear the blood of all impurities, banish pimples and sallowness and restore lost appetite and energy. No known remedy is so strengthening and energizing to a tired, worn-out system as this old-fashioned body-regulator. It is one of the best health-restorers known to medical science."

MITCHELL GIVEN JOB

VICE PRESIDENT OF A. F. OF L. APPOINTED LABOR COMMISSIONER OF NEW YORK BY SULZER

ALBANY, N. Y., April 22.—In spite of some slight opposition, it was believed today that the senate will confirm the appointment by Governor Sulzer of John Mitchell, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, to be labor commissioner of the state of New York. The appointment is for four years and the office pays $8,000 a year.

Moths and Butterflies.

Some moths look very much like butterflies, but there are two ways in which you can always tell the one from the other. Each has little slender feelers growing from the head, but the butterfly's feelers, or antennae, as they are called, have knobs on the ends. The antennae of the moth sometimes have tiny feathers on them and sometimes little spires, but they are never knobbed. Then, too, in alighting the butterfly always holds her wings erect, while the moth's droop or are nearly flat.

He Loved to Fly Over the Country.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

How the Goldenrod Came to Be

JACK and Evelyn had had an argument one day and had not been able to agree. So when daddy came home in the evening they were all tongues eager to have him decide the question. Jack began to talk so fast that daddy couldn't understand him, so he said:

"Now, Jack, you know 'ladies first' is a good rule. Let Evelyn speak first."

Well, the argument was about dowers. Evelyn said the rose was the prettiest of all flowers, while Jack argued for the violet. But when they asked daddy's opinion he decided in favor of the goldenrod, saying that that was his favorite flower.

Later, when the time for the bedtime story came, he told the children how the goldenrod came to be.

"Once upon a time," daddy said, "there was a fairy prince who was very very good. He took great delight in flying all over the country on the back of a splendid big red and gold butterfly, visiting poor people and leaving good things at their doors."

"Of course the fairy prince did his best not to be seen, but one day he remained out too late on one of his errands of goodness, and a little girl spied him sailing along overhead on his wonderful butterfly."

"Oh," she cried, "there goes the fairy with the good heart!" So ever after that in that country the fairy was known as Prince Fairy of the Good Heart.

"Of course Prince Fairy of the Good Heart did not have to whip his butterfly flying horse to make him go fast or speak harshly to him. But he had long golden staff with which he used to touch the butterfly gently on one side of the head or the other to show him the way in which he wanted to go."

"But one day Prince Fairy of the Good Heart had the misfortune to drop his golden staff. He was flying on an errand which needed him very much. There was a sick child to be helped, and in such cases the prince let nothing stop him. He had a long way to go, too, but it was a straight road through the air, so he did not need the golden staff."

"However, on his way back he stopped the red and gold butterfly and got down to look for his golden staff. After searching for a time he found it. But it had changed in the meantime."

"It had fallen straight to the ground and had stuck there and taken root becoming the beautiful flower which we now call the goldenrod. In front of stood a little girl admiring very much the beautiful new flower, so Prince Fairy of the Good Heart decided not to pluck it, but to leave it for the folks of the earth. Since then every fall, in many places the earth has been covered with the long, slender stalks of the goldenrod."

environment is not only useless but silly. What if we do not happen to like the companions that fate has given us? They are themselves and we cannot make them over according to our own private pattern. Anyway, the world would be very uninteresting and prosy if it did not contain personalities unlike our own. The whole point that Bennett makes, and to which we must assent in our clearer moments, is that we were put in the world to get along with it and that the world is under no obligation to get along with us if we persist in working at cross purposes with it. We must accept much that is, but on the other hand, we should be ever active wherein it is given us to improve present conditions.

NOW LET VICE HUNT ITS HOLE

While many of his ardent supporters may not like it, most of the opponents of Mayor Sorensen in the late campaign will be pleased with His Honor's announcement that he proposes to "clean up the city" from a moral standpoint.

That Mr. Sorensen does not propose to go at the work in an inconsiderate hurry is suggested by his statement in The Tribune that he will not proceed in "an hysterical frame of mind."

Evidence of the methodical course the mayor intends to pursue may be found in his conference with civic organizations, the encouraging results of which he indicates in the statement that he is "becoming possessed of information on the subject." It will be remembered that already the mayor has in his possession an elaborate report made him by a detective in his own hire, containing evidence of the existence of thirty-two disorderly houses, nine of them on Pearl street. With this valuable evidence supplemented by data secured by the civic societies, Mr. Sorensen will doubtless shortly be prepared to proceed with a sweeping campaign against the evils that beset us.

One of the usual incidentals of such a campaign is the "tipping off" of impending raids, a practice frequently charged to the police. We suggest that in addition to taking early precautions against this species of malfeasance His Honor be prepared to visit the most severe punishment on anyone who may become guilty of the offense. Unfortunately, we have been put to much discussion and some temporary hard feeling before a mayor has arrived at that state of mind calculated to impel unremitting action along this line, and neither inadvertence nor design should be permitted to interfere with the complete and positive consummation of the drastic program which the new executive has in mind.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 22.—If he will consent to appear here, "Uncle Joe" Cannon will be chief speaker at Milwaukee's memorial day services. An invitation was forwarded Illinois' veteran law maker last night.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Fame

Says old man Haskins of our town, There are too many seekers for renown, Too many fellers are grasping for fame. Every one wants an immortal name. And a lot of fellers have not learned yet They're strivin' for something they'll never get.

There's got to be famous men, that's true, But there's got to be common people, too. This strenuous toil, we can't all shirk.

Somebody's got to do the work. Somebody's got to be contented; Without the artistic temperament; Somebody's got to till the soil; Somebody's got to ache and toll; Somebody's got to wash and scrub; Somebody's got to produce the grub; Somebody's got to stew and sweat; Somebody's got to fume and fret; To support the fellers who are in the game.

Of doin' nothing but chasin' Fame.

The road to Fame is a rocky way And it's getting rockier every day. For competition's so gol durned stout That one in a hundred won't win out.

To be a genius no doubt is grand, But for me, I'll take a little land, And a certain livin' throughout the year. Instid of chasin' a vague career. Three meals a day and a coat to yer back Beats Fame by a mile on a kite-shaped track.

Willie's Lifesaving Device

Willie had been forbidden to try his new skates on Christmas afternoon, because his parents thought the ice was not safe. Consequently, when he appeared in the doorway dripping wet, there was trouble brewing. "Don't lick me, ma," said the offender, "because I've just saved three men and two women from drowning." "How?" demanded his mother. "Why," explained Willie, "they were just going on the ice when I broke through."

Fishes are so Foolish

They had been shopping for the Sunday dinner and one of their purchases was a fish. The mother's arms were full of parcels, so the little daughter—she looked about 4—carried the brown package with part of one fin projecting, says the Kansas City Star.

And it did seem as if the fish must still be alive—the package was so hard for the little arms to hold. Half the passengers of the car were sympathizing with her, and smiling, too—she was so earnest about it.

Some of them smiled out loud at the following dialogue:

"If I lost that fish, would we have to catch it again?"

"I guess so."

"Well, how?"

"Well, I guess we'd get a line and a hook and bait the hook with something the fish likes to eat—"

"Oh, I know—with candy!"

"No, not with candy. A worm would be better."

The little girl's face wrinkled with perplexity.

"A worm?" she soliloquized.

"Why, mamma, does a fish be so foolish as to think a worm is something to eat?"

CURES RHEUMATISM

Quickly Eases Stiff, Sore, Swollen Joints and Muscles—Drives Rheumatic Pains Away

It is needless to suffer any longer with rheumatism, and be all crippled up, and bent out of shape with its heart-wrenching pains, when you can easily avoid it.

Rheumatism comes from weak, inactive kidneys, that fail to filter from the blood, the poisonous waste matter and uric acid; and it is useless to "rub on liniments or take ordinary remedies to relieve the pain. This only prolongs the misery and can't possibly cure you.

The only way to cure rheumatism is to remove the cause. The new discovery, Croxone, does this because it neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous substances and uric acid that lodge in the joints and muscles, to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism, and cleans out and strengthens the stopped-up, inactive kidneys, so they can filter the poison from the blood, and drive it on and out of the system.

Croxone is the most wonderful medicine ever made for curing chronic rheumatism, kidney troubles, and bladder disorders. You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It matters not how old you are, or how long you have suffered, it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. You will find relief from the first few doses, and you will be surprised how quickly all your misery and suffering will end.

An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle at any first class drug store. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive money-back guarantee. Three doses a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to cure the worst backache or overcome urinary disorders.

THE FIRESIDE SERMON

By Lucius C. Clark, D. D. Tuesday, April Twenty-second, 1913 Oklahoma Opened for Settlement, 1913

Joel 2, 4, 5. "The appearance of them is as the appearance of horses and as horsemen so shall they run. Like the noise of chariots on the tops of mountains shall they leap, like the noise of a flame of fire that devoureth the stubble, as a strong people set in battle array."

If we had been in Oklahoma on the morning of April 22, 1889, and had seen in the paper the above scripture we would conclude the reported had been gifted in giving the scene as it happened. No charge of battle field could outdo the charge of this day on the plains of peace.

From a New Angle

When Solicitor General Lehman left Washington to pick up the threads of his St. Louis practice he left a gap in the ranks of Washington's official raconteurs that will not be easily filled. In spite of the volume of his work—and a great part of the government's most important trust litigation was handled by him before the supreme court—Lehman never lacked time to swap stories.

One of his favorites concerns the visit of a New Yorker to St. Louis. Judge Lehman pointed out to him one day the modest house in which Sherman had made his headquarters at the start of the civil war. Just opposite was an imposing residence built by a man who had made his millions in the meat export business. "That's a curious contrast," said Lehman, "the old home of a great soldier and the magnificent palace of a man who made his money in pork."

An Absent Minded Prelate

To forget one's name is embarrassing enough, but to forget one's occupation may be more embarrassing still. Mr. G. W. E. Russell has a story of the late Archbishop Trench, "a man of singularly vague and dreamy habits," who "resigned the See of Dublin on account of advancing years, and settled in London." He once went back to pay a visit to his successor, Lord Plunket. Finding himself back again in his old palace, sitting at his old dinner table, and gazing across it at his old wife, he lapsed in memory to the days when he was master of the house, and gently remarked to Mrs. Trench:

"I am afraid, my love, that we must put this cook down among our failures."—London Chronicle.

House of Commons Prison.

The house of commons has its own prison for those that treat it with contempt—the clock tower of the house. It was here that Mr. Bradlaugh was committed in 1880 for refusing to obey the speaker's order to withdraw. He was liberated next day. A more real punishment was the imprisonment there of a Mr. Ward, a solicitor, in 1879 for a breach of the privileges of the house in connection with a bill. He remained there several days until a medical certificate was produced to the effect that his health was in danger through the perpetual striking of Big Ben. The commons debated whether to stop the clock or release the prisoner, and Big Ben won.—London Spectator.

The Just and The Unjust

Drunk he was, but not as she understood drunkenness. In the terrible extremity to which his crime had brought him he was having recourse to drugs.

"You say you have proof—don't be absurd, Marsh, you know you haven't!" she added uneasily.

"You were with North in his rooms—" he insisted.

He was conscious of a strange wonder at himself that he could believe this, and yet aside from such gusts of rage as these, his doubt of her made no difference in their life together. Surely this was the measure of his degradation.

"I am not going to discuss this matter with you!" Evelyn said.

"Aren't you? Well, I guess you will. Do you know you may be summoned into court?"

"Why?" she demanded, with a nervous start.

"North may want to prove that he was in his rooms at the hour the murder is supposed to have been committed; all he needs is your testimony—it would make a nice scandal, wouldn't it?"

"Has he asked this?" Evelyn questioned.

"Not yet."

"Then I don't think he ever will," she said quietly.

"Do you suppose he will be fool enough to go to the penitentiary, or hang, to save your reputation?"

Langham asked harshly.

"I think Jack North would be at most fool enough for that," she answered with conviction.

"Well, I don't—you were too easy—men don't risk their necks for your sort!" he mocked. "Look here, you had an infatuation for North—you admitted it—only this time it went too far! What was the trouble, did he get sick of the business and throw you over?"

"How coarse you are, Marsh!" and she colored angrily, not at his words, however, but at the memory of that last meeting with North.

"It's a damn rotten business, and I'll call it by what name I please! If you are summoned, it will be your word against his; you have told me you were not in his rooms—"

"I was not there—" she said, and as she said it she wondered why she did not tell the truth, admit the whole thing and have it over with. She was tired of the wrangling, and her hatred of North had given way to pity, yet when Langham replied:

"All right. You are my wife, and North can hang, but he shan't save himself by ruining you! I can help it!"

She answered: "I have told you that I wasn't there, Marsh."

"Would you swear that you were not there?" Langham asked eagerly.

"Yes—"

"Even if it sent him to the penitentiary," he persisted.

"Yes—"

He took her by the shoulders and drew her near to him that he might look deep into her eyes.

"Even if it hanged him?" he rasped out.

She felt his hot breath on her cheek; she looked into his face, fierce, cruel, with the insane selfishness of his one great fear.

"Answer me—would you let him hang?"

"Would I let him hang—" she repeated.

"Yes—"

"I—I don't know!" she said in a frightened whisper.

"No, damn you. I can't trust you!" and he flung her from him.

There was a brief silence. The intangible, unformed, unthoughted fear that had kept her silent was crystallizing into a very tangible conviction. Marshall had expressed more than the mere desire to be revenged on North, she saw that he was swayed by the mastering emotion of fear, rather than by his blazing hate of the suspected man.

Slowly but surely there came to her an understanding of his swift descent during the last months.

"Marsh—" she began, and hesitated.

A scarcely articulate snarl from Langham seemed to encourage her to go on.

"Marsh, where does the money come from that you—that we—have been spending so lavishly this winter?"

"From my practice," he said, but his face was averted.

She gave a frightened laugh.

"Oh, no, Marsh, I know better

WEAKENED RAILING CAUSES BAD FALL

Mrs. Lien Falls from Second Story of Porch While Shaking Rug

While beating rugs on the front porch of the second story of her home, 1527 Berlin street, Saturday morning, Mrs. I. Lien fell through the railing to the pavement below, a distance of fifteen feet, fracturing one rib and seriously bruising her body in several different places.

Mrs. Lien was shaking a large rug, with her weight on the railing, not knowing that it was weak, and it gave way, letting her fall to the ground.

She was carried into the house by neighbors, who say that it was a miracle that the accident did not result more seriously. Physicians who were called say that Mrs. Lien will be confined to her bed for several days, as the fall was a great shock.

Wetting an Actor.

Even water has its substitute on the stage. This is not water for drinking, however, but for garments where an effect of being wet is wanted. An actor might come upon the stage actually wet to the skin in real water, and aside from his dripping hair he would not look wet. To make an actor look actually wet a great quantity of vaseline is rubbed over his clothes, when, with hair dripping wet and the lights reflected upon the vaseline on his clothes, he has every appearance of having just been fished out of the river or ocean or whatever particular body of water he is supposed to have fallen or been thrown into.—New York American.

BREAST STROKE HARD TO LEARN

Expert Swimmer Says the Crawl Conserves Energy and Drives the Body Through Water

CLASSES INSTRUCTED AT THE "Y"

Declares Cold Water Is the Cause of Lack of Swimmers; to Be Here a Week

Hebden H. Corsan started with his six days of swimming instructions at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon, with a class of boys from the intermediate department of the association. A class of young men were instructed last night.

Mr. Corsan denounces the methods of swimming that have been taught by instructors for the past fifty years, namely, the breast stroke, which Mr. Corsan blames for the large loss of life by drowning that occurs every year. Another reason that he gives for a lack of swimmers in the United States, is that the water is cold from nine to ten months of the year, not giving time for swimmers to practice. In the following interview Mr. Corsan shows the cause for his not using the breast stroke, and for his adoption of the crawl:

Breast Stroke Hard to Learn

"Outside of the coldness of the water in the United States, I attribute the lack of swimmers to the fact that for centuries swimming teachers have been in the habit of teaching the broad stroke on breast, or the sailor fashion of swimming, to the beginner. This stroke is so hard to learn that most beginners give up in disgust. Those who are not versatile go through life without knowing how to swim.

"For five years I have been condemning the breast stroke, and the cause for many drowning accidents. It has kept a great mass of people from learning the real secrets pertaining to the art of swimming.

"When using the breast stroke, the swimmer has four limbs working against himself, retarding his advancement forward, after each stroke. In using the breast stroke, the swimmer has four angles coming against the water, namely, the front of each thigh, the back of the leg, and the front of each arm. The drawing up of each thigh, the back of the legs shortens the length of the body, and with kick of legs and pull of arms, the body is only forced through the water half a body's length.

Lacking in Grace

"The breast stroke is lacking in grace, and does not have any hygienic value, that an over arm stroke would. The real trouble in teaching the beginner the breast stroke is in the habits that he develops, such as the spreading of knees, and the turning out of the toes, which positions are never attained in any of the over arm strokes, and there are nine in number."

Corsan declares that the stroke that he teaches, the crawl stroke, is man's natural manner of swimming. In that he has to work out a system of his own. Corsan says that man cannot receive any pointers from any fish or animal in the art of swimming, as so many have the impression.

STAR THEATRE

225 MAIN STREET.

He explains the crawl stroke: "With the crawl stroke, you simply crawl with the arms, and run with the legs, the body being long and narrow, thus permitting it to go forward through the water, with each pull of the arms, and snap together of the legs. The head is laid in the water, and is on the same level with the feet, which permits of the body being at all times on a horizontal plane. The body being in this position, will easily float, which saves the crawl swimmer from having to use any muscular energy for sustaining power, as specific gravity favors swimmers if the head is kept in the water.

Cause of Cramps

"The crawl stroke allows of learning the simple little feat known as rhythmic breathing, which when explained, means to turn the head to the left side, when the left arm is coming out of the water, which allows the mouth to open, and a quantity of air to be inhaled. The same applies to the motion of the right arm in coming out of the water."

Mr. Corsan attributes the many cases of cramps which are taken while in the water to the old breast stroke, which compels the swimmer to keep the chest almost doubled up and head held high.

First Life Policy.

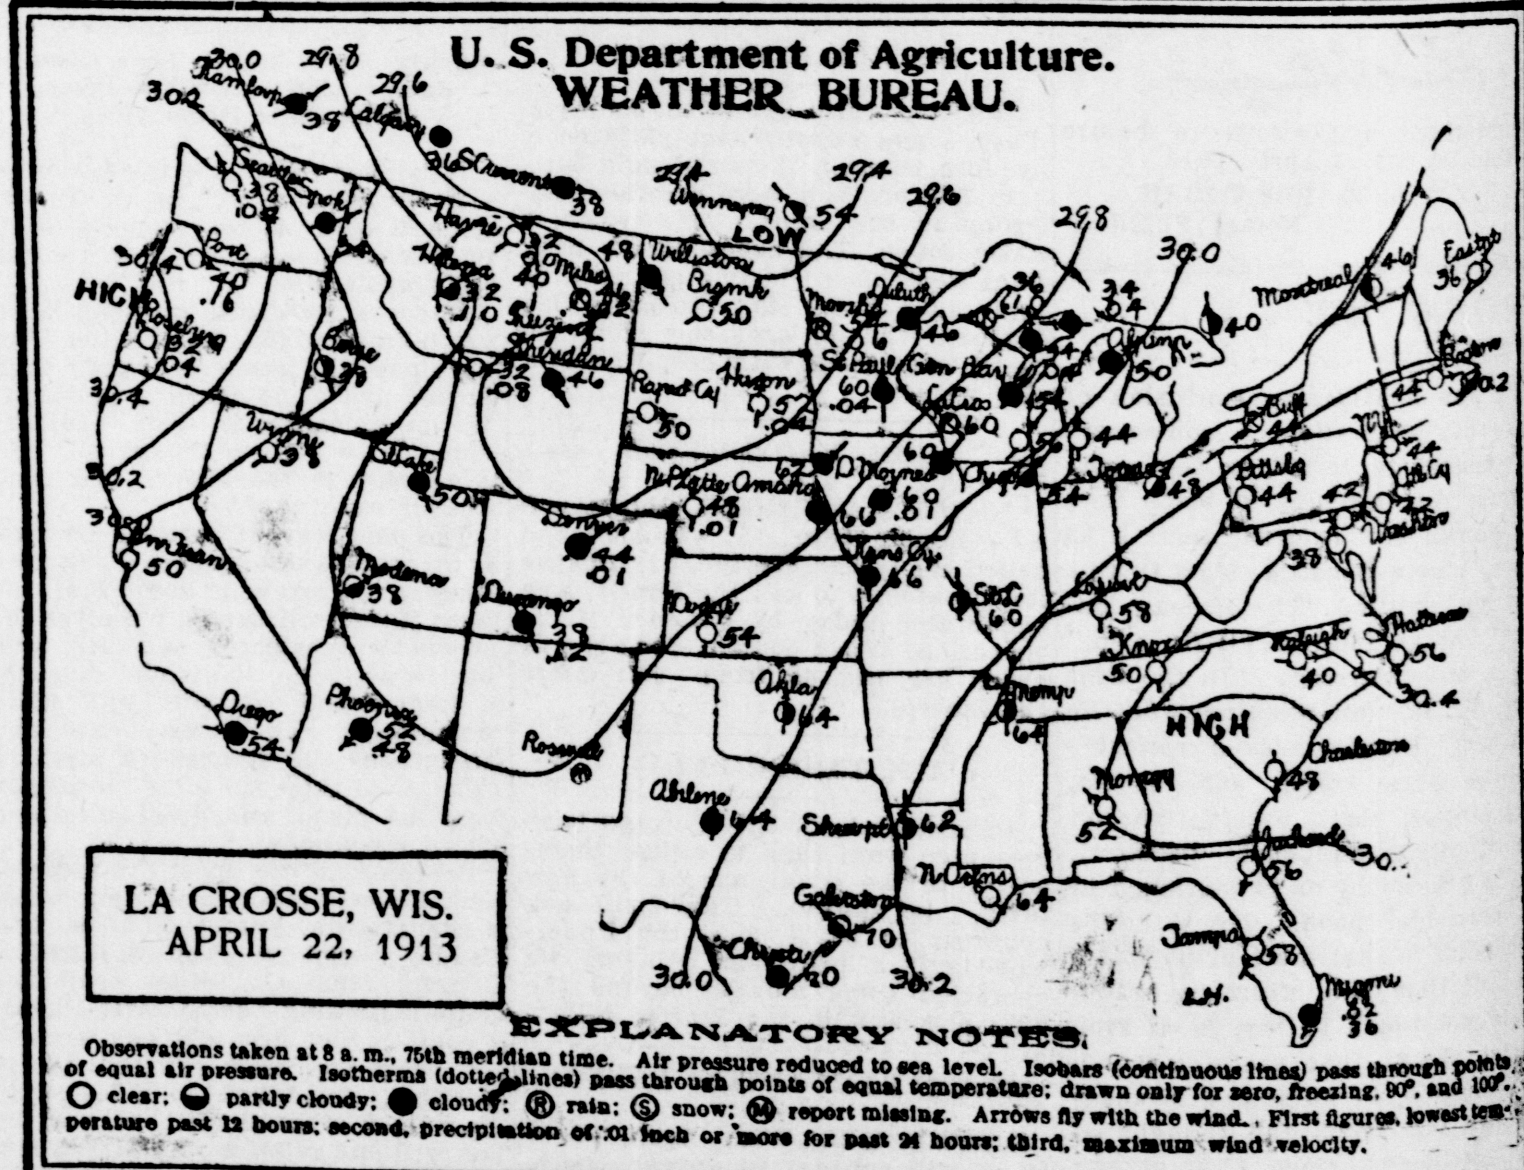

"The first life insurance policy that was ever issued is said to have been written on June 18, 1583, and to have been for $283 6s. 8d. on the life of a certain William Gibbons," said Archibald A. Welch in a lecture. "The policy was for one year, and the premium was 8 per cent of the sum insured; the age was unknown. It happened that Gibbons died on May 29, 1584, well within the calendar year, but the insurers contested the claim on the ground that twelve months of twenty-eight days each had passed. The courts, however, decided against the insurers and the money had to be paid."—Exchange.

Hussars Once Freebooters.

Hussars were originally scarcely respectable enough to include a Prince of Wales among their numbers, for the word hussar is akin to corsair, and the first hussars were simply freebooters. As part of the regular army the hussar appeared in Hungary in 1458, when King Matthias Corvinus raised a corps of light horse under that name to fight against the Turks. The name and fame of the Hungarian hussars spread throughout Europe, and Frederick the Great was not above sending an officer to study their work. The English hussar dates from 1805, when the Seventh regiment was converted from light dragoons into hussars.—Westminster Gazette.

SPOTLIGHTS

THE PRICE.

The normal human being craves for happiness. It is on this big human theme that George Broadhurst has built his greatest drama, "The Price," in which Edna Marshall will be seen at the La Crosse theater on Saturday, April 26, matinee and night.

"The Price" tells its story in three acts. It has to do with the love of a woman for a man, and the price she has to pay because before she was really able to judge between passion and love she gave herself to another. It is a theme of universal interest, for there are many among us whose lives it has entered in one phase or another. The playwright treats his subject with such consummate skill that "The Price" has been acclaimed the best play of its kind since "Camille."

BELLA DONNA.

"Bella Donna," in which Charles Frohman presents Madame Nazimova this season, is spoken of as a most interesting play. "Bella Donna" is a dramatization by James Bernard Fagan of the popular novel of the same title by Robert Hichens. The heroine is a vampire of the worst possible type, yet the play possesses the fascinating charm of the east and a certain subtle mystery pervades it throughout, which is well adapted to this weird and sinister woman of the world. Bella Donna has a past. The symbol of beauty has been applied to her in London, to some she is like a serpent, treacherous, ready to bite; to her lover she is a beautiful, refreshing, unusual person, generally misunderstood. She is, in truth, what she is generally understood to be, a viper in woman's guise, a mercenary, fickle butterfly. Such is the character Madame Nazimova portrays, for of course, she is the Bella Donna, and the role is said to offer her the greatest opportunities of her career. The play is said to be the dramatic sensation of the season, and Madame Nazimova's acting to be most remarkable. With her big, handsome and elaborate production and excellent supporting company of players, Madame Nazimova presents "Bella Donna" for an engagement of one night at the La Crosse theater, Monday, April 28.

President Wilson says he will not attend any public meeting for a year except the annual session of the Gridiron club. After the club session he probably won't want to.

Girl Pleads with Judge to Let Her Marry the Man Who Threatened to Kill Her

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 22.—Though he held her up at midnight with a loaded revolver and threatened to kill her and then commit suicide, it was alleged when he was arrested, Amelia Kolowicz, 856 Tenth avenue, asked the judge in district court on Monday if she might be permitted to marry Wladislaus Rzemplinski, charged with assault with intent to kill and murder. The judge was astonished. He knew, however, that the mind of a young girl maturing into womanhood cannot be read by a mere man, so he ordered both defendant and complainant to place their case before the district attorney.

In the presence of a deputy sheriff and later alone with the prosecutor the girl still expressed her desire to become Rzemplinski's wife, regardless of the length of his name.

"I love him," she said, "and he loves me and I think the judge should let us get married if we are so sincere, don't you?" she asked the district attorney.

The case was reopened in district court and the girl's request granted. Her lover's case was continued to May 2.

for ConstipationA Small Dose on Retiring and You are Well and Happy by Morning

MR. A. B. DANNER

It is only natural that the simplest of ailments should be the most general, and so we have a whole nation suffering from constipation and indigestion, for they are closely allied. But common as constipation is many people do not seem to know they have it. They will complain of headache, drowsiness or biliousness, all unconscious of the cause of the trouble.

You should have a full and free movement at least once a day. If you pass a day you are constipated, and the result will be that you will catch a cold easily or have a more serious ailment. To cure the constipation and forestall still graver trouble take a dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night before retiring and by morning relief will come, without disturbance from sleep or any inconvenience.

Legions of people use it regularly in such emergencies, some of them formerly chronic invalids who have suffered from constipation all their lives. Mr. A. B. Danner, 326 Riley St., Harrisburg, Pa., says: "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin gave me almost instant relief from stomach and bowel trouble. I now eat anything I want and sleep well." Many others will tell you that they have tried most things recommended for this purpose but have found Syrup Pepsin the only one always reliable. A bottle can be obtained at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar, the latter size being bought by families already familiar with its merits.

Syrup Pepsin is mild, pleasant tasting and non-gripping. Mothers give it to tiny infants, and yet it is effective in grownups. PASS MONEY BILL

House Puts Sundry Civil Appropriation Through in Ten Minutes

PASS MONEY
WASHINGTON, April 22.—All congressional records in appropriating government money were smashed today by the house, when it passed a bill at the rate of $11,679,500 a minute, or about $194,800 a second. The sundry civil appropriation bill vetoed March 4 by former President Taft, was the record breaker.
At 12:25 today the house took up the bill. At 12:35 it was passed by a viva voce vote. An enacted bill contains the clause prohibiting the government from expending money to prosecute farmers and labor unions, which President Taft termed "most vicious class legislation."

Gallagher's resolution directs that the committee investigate alleged unjust discriminations against players; whether the baseball magnates have so combined as to prevent competition; whether players are coerced from their rights.

SCENES AT FUNERAL SERVICES OF LATE J. P. MORGAN

Top, funeral cortege leaving St. George's Church, hearse bearing remains of J. P. Morgan leading. Bottom, remains about to be placed in hearse for interment at Hartford, Conn.

Funeral services over the body of the late J. Pierpont Morgan were held Monday in St. George's Protestant Episcopal Church, New York, where he had worshiped for half a century.

Blanketed by a covering of 5,000 red roses, Mr. Morgan's favorite flower, the coffin left the Morgan library for the church. The services were witnessed by 1,500 persons, one of the most notable gatherings ever seen in New York.

After the funeral services, the remains of the late "money king" were taken to Cedar Hill Cemetery, Hartford, Conn., where they were laid. J. P. Morgan is the sixth of his house to find a resting place there. Like the others, the grave of the newcomer will be marked by a small brown headstone, inscribed: "John Pierpont Morgan, 1836-1913." Hartford is the birthplace of the late financier.

INDIANS SWARM IN FEDERAL BUILDING

Many Colored Blankets Are Decorations of Corridors When Tribe Gets Bounty

Blankets in every shade of the rainbow, and some that the rainbow would find it hard to duplicate were the prevailing decorations of the second floor of the federal building today. The blankets adorned the bodies of some 200 Winnebago Indians, of all ages and degrees of sanitation, who were waiting with stolid patience their turn at Uncle Sam's money barrel. Indian Agent L. M. Compton, Tomah, is paying annuities to the members of the tribe in this part of the state. It is expected that the payments will be concluded tomorrow.
The squaws are crouched motionless along the walls of the corridor in every available spot, most of them dandling papooses. Some of the papooses are bound to a board in the traditional fashion of Indian mothers.

In connection with the payments, the government is taking a census of the tribe, and each Indian, as he receives his annuity, is required literally to "put his fist" to a census blank. The Indian signatures are thumb-prints, in red ink, to please the eye of the aborigines.

"By Jingo."
The term "By jingo" was many years old when it gave birth to the jingo. It was originally used as a conjurer's exclamation, "My jingo," and it appears in Motteux's translation of Rabelais published in 1894, where the French original is "par Dieu." Goldsmith also used it both in the "Vicar of Wakefield" and "The Stoops to Conquer." But the idea that jingo is short for that most respectable saint, St. Gengulphus, is one of the jocular fancies of the author of the "Ingoldsby Legends."—London Mail.

The young woman looked up and answered sweetly:
"Oh, no, doctor. You have seen three colder than I!"—Boston Herald.

DEMOCRAT REPORT ON TARIFF BILL
IS INTRODUCED

alliance that has long existed between the interests profiting by the unreasonable rates and the political party imposing such rates.
Detailed statistics upon the increased cost of living are given in the report. It is declared that all products have increased 46.7 per cent since 1897. Specific increases over 1897 are given as follows:
Farm products 93.2 per cent; food, 46.7 per cent; clothing, 35.8 per cent; metals and implements, 48.2 per cent and house furniture, 24.2 per cent. The highest increases are stated to be lard, with 184 per cent and mess pork, 122 per cent.

Able to Compete
Declaring that modern and efficient plants are able to hold their own against foreign competition, the democrats assert that many obsolete, wornout industrial plants "which should have long been relegated to the scrap heap" have thrived at the expense of tariff ridden consumers.

It is asserted by the majority that they have absolutely rejected as a tariff making guide the republican slogan of "the difference in cost of production at home and abroad." They declare that foreign costs are actually unascertainable and fluctuate.

Defending the placing of sugar and raw wool on the free list, the democrats say they have "responded to public demands."

As a reason for using the ad valorem system of fixing duties, the democrats state that the specific duty masks the real character and burden of the tariff and keeps the consumer who pays the cost in ignorance of his real contributions.

Night Sessions Ordered
Day and night sessions of the house, beginning tomorrow night, were ordered today by Majority Leader Underwood to expedite passage through the house of the Wilson-Underwood bill. It was reported that President Wilson had hinted to the capital leaders that night sessions would be in order to show the country an earnest desire to complete the tariff revision at the earliest possible date.

Representative Underwood stated today that general debate in the house upon the bill will begin tomorrow. He said he hoped to pass the bill in the house—without an amendment—within two weeks or a little more.

A Fatal Advertisement.
Vestris, the great dancing master, died at eighty-three, and it was said he would have lived till a hundred but for a sudden and mortal blow in the shape of an advertisement. One day he asked for a newspaper, probably for the first time in his life. Scarcely had he opened the sheet when his eyes lighted upon the following: "Wanted—A professor of dancing at Calcutta. Must be a skillful chiropodist at the same time." He took to his bed and never left it again alive.

Despite Fact Death Sentence May Be Asked Lad Complains Because Menu Is Small

ELGIN, Ill., April 22.—Despite the fact that State's Attorney Phillips may ask his death for the cold blooded murder of Mrs. Maude Sleep and her two babies, Herman Koppes, 14 year old boy who confessed the triple slaying, in the Kane county jail today and complained because the bill of fare was unpretentious.
"Gosh," he said, looking out of the jail window. "This is swell weather for fishing. I bet the perch and bass are biting fine."
The Koppes boy was a paroled inmate of the St. Charles reformatory. Since his confession several Kane county farmers who adopted boys from the school have sent them back.

Judge Slusser of Wheaton, this afternoon recalled the February grand jury to take up the case of Herman Koppes, 14 year old boy who confessed that he murdered Mrs. Maude Sleep and her two babies. The court's action is said to be without precedent in Kane county.
For the first time since his arrest the boy betrayed signs of emotion today when his parents visited him. He broke down and cried as he repeated his confession to his mother, Mrs. William Koppes of Plano, Ill.

TO PLACE CANNONS
ON SOLDIERS' LOT

Members of Wilson Colwell Post G. A. R. have been notified by Congressman John J. Esch that he is making an attempt to procure a pair of civil war field cannons and some cannon balls to place at the base of the soldiers monument which will be dedicated in Oak Grove cemetery on Memorial Day. If Congressman Esch's efforts prove successful the beauty of the fine granite shaft will be materially enhanced. The cannons and pyramids of cannon balls will be placed at the foot of the shaft.
The monument has already been raised and stands overlooking the soldiers lot in the cemetery. It represents the life-sized figure of a civil war soldier at parade rest gazing over the field which holds the ashes of his departed comrades. The monument is a beautiful addition to the scenic effects of the cemetery and is the gift of Wilson Colwell post.

NAVY SECRETS ARE STOLEN BY WOMAN

First Lord of British Admiralty Churchill Robbed at Resort on the Riviera

LONDON, April 22.—Enemies of Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty today were busy with schemes to get his reported robbery on the Riviera before the house of commons.
A beautiful young woman was an attentive watcher while Churchill recently played for high stakes in one of the exclusive resorts at Cannes, and when he boarded his private yacht the same night, he found that he had been robbed of a wallet in which the young woman had seen him deposit his winnings, $2,500.
The wallet also contained many valuable papers disclosing secrets of the British navy.
It is surmised that the young woman is one of the notorious "secret diplomats" of Europe, engaging in stealing state papers and information from one nation, to hand them over to another.
Churchill was in the house of commons this afternoon and through his private secretary, ridiculed the story that he was robbed of $2,500 and valuable state papers in a gambling resort of the Riviera.
"Mr. Churchill has not been at Cannes or on the Riviera for many months," the secretary said, "and the first lord of the admiralty does not carry admiralty documents in his wallet when he goes on a holiday."

EASTER BURLESQUE ENDS IN TRAGEDY

Man Who Shouts "I Am God" in Irreverent Travesty Dies Suddenly and Mysteriously

TRINIDAD, Colo., April 22.—A travesty on the crucifixion and resurrection of Christ at the coal mining camp of Delagua, near here, has had a tragic sequence. Angelo Rotondo, an Italian, who scoffingly impersonated the deity, is dead, apparently from no physical cause.

Students of the occult ascribe it to auto psychic suggestion. They say he hypnotized himself to death. Religious Italians and Mexicans of the camp believe it is the wrath of God. The little camp is in the throes of religious awe. Rotondo died Easter Monday in San Raphael hospital here. Since then all others who took part in the burlesque, have left the camp.

As the story is told by Italian miners who came to Trinidad, Rotondo and his crowd of scoffers Easter Sunday laughed at the believers. Easter morning Rotondo was carried through the streets on a litter, and up on a hillside, where a grave had been dug. The burlesquers told Mexicans and Italians of the village that Rotondo was Christ, and that they had crucified him. Later in the day they declared that Rotondo had been resurrected, and was to come forth and walk among them.

Rotondo, attended by his followers, went about sprinkling water from an ordinary garden sprinkler upon houses and persons, proclaiming himself Christ. The performance was followed by a parade, his companions bearing Rotondo in a litter made of a half barrel on a cot frame, through the streets. He constantly cried out, "I am God!"

The next moment he fell back unconscious. A physician was called, but was unable to determine what was the matter with him.

He was brought to the hospital and died without regaining consciousness. A post-mortem examination failed to disclose the cause of death.

If it makes you short of breath to go upstairs, you need no other proof that your blood is thin and watery. Next to pallor this is the commonest symptom of anemia.

Every woman who fails to pass the staircase test should build up her blood at once with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mrs. G. E. Leadbetter, of No. 164 Oak street, Lewiston, Maine, recovered her health in this way.

"While attending school I became in such a run-down condition," she says, "that I was obliged to give up my studies. I had dreadfully sick headaches which made me sick to my stomach. I was pale and so weak that I had to be assisted in going up stairs. My lips and gums were blue and my hands seemed almost transparent. I had no desire for food. The doctors said that my blood was impoverished but they did not give me much benefit. I also tried cod-liver oil and hypophosphites for their tonic effect but they failed to help me. Then I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and was soon entirely well."

BLOW AT TAMMANY IN CHOICE OF POLK

Frank L. Polk.

Another anti-Tammany move on the part of the Wilson administration is seen in the appointment of Frank L. PURE FOOD LAW NOT OVERTURNED

U. S. Supreme Court Decision Does Not Affect General Dairy and Food Act Here

That the general law of the state relating to dairy and food products has not been affected by the decision of the United States supreme court in its decision declaring unconstitutional the Wisconsin law providing that glucose shall be labeled as glucose, is the opinion of Attorney General Owen. Copies of the decision have been received here.

The decision of the supreme court of the United States was to the effect, said Attorney General Owen, that the Wisconsin law providing that glucose shall be labeled as glucose superseded certain federal statutes and conflicted with interstate commerce laws, and for that reason was unconstitutional. The decision, however, does not affect the general dairy and food law of this state.

BOB WOULD MAKE AMENDMENT EASY

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Senator La Follette introduced a resolution on Monday to require congress to submit an amendment to the constitution when the legislatures of a majority of the people of ten states so demand. Amendments proposed would be ratified by the majority of the voters in each state.

Rather Flimsy Excuse.

The case of "any excuse" was exemplified recently at Capetown (S. Africa) criminal court. A native named asked by the magistrate why he had signed his evidence "Tom Harris," his real name being April Phalander, replied that he did so because the pen was a bad one and his hand was shaking.

The people of Waterproof, La., evidently don't want to go to the trouble of changing its name. They are strengthening the levees.

MUST QUALIFY TO GO ON RANGE

New firing regulations have been adopted for the use of the army. Under these regulations no man is allowed to fire services charges in practice on the range until he has first made a qualifying score on the gallery range. Men who in previous years have made the grade of marksmen are exempted from this rule.

Commencing Thursday the members of Company M will devote all their energies to qualifying men for the open range season which opens May 1.

I have induced many of my friends to try Cardui, and they all say they have been benefitted by its use.

A well-known downtown druggist says his customers insist on Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because, they say, it dardens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. Do this at night and by morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant. O. T. Erhart, agent.

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

MESSRS. HOKE
AND POKE

By DONALD ALLEN

Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

As a stranger, stopping for a day at the inn at the village of Rosedale, one might have heard that Farmer Brown had broken his leg. It would have been of very little interest. Farmers and others are breaking their legs, and even their necks, every day in the year. The announcement did not greatly interest the villagers. They said "Poor devil," and then went to talking of other matters.

There were just six persons actively interested in the accident. The first was Farmer Brown; the second, his daughter Mary; the third, a young man named Tom Cushman; the fourth, an old skinflint named Ferguson, and the fifth and sixth, two tramps.

Tom Cushman was a young man, the son of a widow; he had a grocery and was postmaster at Rosedale. He was steady and honest and everybody liked him.

Mary Brown was under twenty, and had been her father's housekeeper since her mother's death, three years before.

Ferguson was an old man and a money-lender. He had about as much mercy on such borrowers as couldn't pay to the day and hour as a wounded tiger has on its hunter. He held a mortgage on the Brown farm and principal and interest were due in a few days after the accident.

By the hardest kind of work and the strictest economy all but $120 of the money had been saved. This sum was to be borrowed from some one else, and that some one else was Tom Cushman. He and the farmer's daughter had fallen in love with each other and were waiting until things came right to be married.

On a certain forenoon two tramps entered the village of Rosedale in company. At the postoffice door stood Tom Cushman. They halted before him and gave him the military salute and one of them said:

"We introduce ourselves as the firm of Hoke & Poke."

"We pad the roof."

"We tour from place to place."

"We take in all sights, including cyclones, earthquakes, conflagrations, eclipses of the sun and moon."

"My name is Hoke, and I know something about law. The gent beside me is named Poke, and he is a philosopher. Our aim and object is to inquire if a letter addressed to Messrs. Hoke & Poke has reached this postoffice?"

"It has not," replied Tom.

On the afternoon of the same day Mary Brown set out to walk three miles to the house of the money-lender to pay off the mortgage. She had the cash with her, and felt a bit timid when she caught sight of two tramps pulling turnips in a field.

Mr. Ferguson had left his house at the same time Mary did hers. He was going to walk down to the Brown farm and tell the farmer that his broken leg would make no difference about the mortgage. It must be paid off before high noon next day or there would be a foreclosure.

The man and the girl met on a little bridge on the highway.

"I won't do any good to come sniveling to me," he almost shouted.

"I have the money to pay the mortgage," she quietly replied.

"Oh, you have? It's $120."

"Yes."

She took the roll from the bosom of her dress and handed it to him, and he stepped away a few feet and sat down on a stone and counted it. There were a good many dollar bills and about ten dollars in silver.

"It seems to be all right," he said.

"I am sure it is," replied Mary.

"Did you bring the mortgage with you?"

"Of course not. Don't you know better than that?"

"Why, father told me to get it when I handed over the money."

"Then he's a fool, too. A release has got to be sent with it to the county clerk, and when he has fixed things he'll mail them to you."

"But don't I get a receipt for the money?"

"Why? You've paid it and that's enough."

The girl realized that she and her father knew very little about business matters.

When she reached home and told her story he said he guessed it was all right. Ferguson was a skinflint but they had never heard of his swindling any one. The matter rested easy until Tom Cushman came out to the farm on the following Sunday.

"I don't like it—I don't like it a bit!" he said when told that Mary had handed over the money and taken no receipt for it.

"But Ferguson wouldn't dare lie about it," said the farmer.

"Oh, he wouldn't!"

"But Mary took the money to him."

"We knew she did, but suppose he says he never even saw her that day?"

And he'd have the money and the same time Mary did hers. He was going to walk down to the Brown farm and tell the farmer that his broken leg would make no difference about the mortgage. It must be paid off before high noon next day or there would be a foreclosure.

When she reached home and told her story he said he guessed it was all right. Ferguson was a skinflint but they had never heard of his swindling any one. The matter rested easy until Tom Cushman came out to the farm on the following Sunday.

"I don't like it—I don't like it a bit!" he said when told that Mary had handed over the money and taken no receipt for it.

"But Ferguson wouldn't dare lie about it," said the farmer.

"Oh, he wouldn't!"

"But Mary took the money to him."

"We knew she did, but suppose he says he never even saw her that day?"

And he'd have the money and the same time Mary did hers. He was going to walk down to the Brown farm and tell the farmer that his broken leg would make no difference about the mortgage. It must be paid off before high noon next day or there would be a foreclosure.

The man and the girl met on a little bridge on the highway.

"I won't do any good to come sniveling to me," he almost shouted.

"I have the money to pay the mortgage," she quietly replied.

"Oh, you have? It's $120."

"Yes."

She took the roll from the bosom of her dress and handed it to him, and he stepped away a few feet and sat down on a stone and counted it. There were a good many dollar bills and about ten dollars in silver.

"It seems to be all right," he said.

"I am sure it is," replied Mary.

"Did you bring the mortgage with you?"

"Of course not. Don't you know better than that?"

"Why, father told me to get it when I handed over the money."

"Then he's a fool, too. A release has got to be sent with it to the county clerk, and when he has fixed things he'll mail them to you."

BADGER MILE STAR BREAKS HIS LEG

MADISON, Wis., April 22.—The Badger Jinx was taking a lot of abuse on the University of Wisconsin campus today when it was learned that Irvin White, premier Wisconsin miler, broke his leg during the relay race at Des Moines Saturday and would be out of competition for the rest of the season.

If anybody wants to make John Bull real mad all he has to do is send him a picture of Mrs. Pankhurst and her two daughters, posed as the three graces.

BOSTON, Mass., April 22.—The fast work of his team mates on the bases saved Ruben Marquard Monday and resulted in the Giants winning 4 to 3. The Braves bolted the eminent southpaw and vaudevillian on his first appearance this season for nine hits, five of them being two baggers, while the Giants could only gather four from Tyler. Score:

CINCINNATI, April 22.—The Cubs won a spicy eleven inning contest from the Reds, 7 to 6, Monday. Chicago came from behind and tied the count at five all in the ninth. In the eleventh Mitchell and Zimmerman put together a run and to make victory sure Corigan batted another across. As it happened this was a lucky stunt, for in their half the Reds scored one run, had two on the path and two out when Tinker came to bat. Cheney induced Joe to lift an easy fly to Mitchell and the doings ended. Score: R H E

BATTERY EXPECTED TO PLAY LARGE PART IN STRUGGLE OF WHITE SOX FOR PENNANT

Benz and Schalk are expected to swing into the flame of publicity as one of the winning batteries of the American League this season.

The youthful Schalk, declared the best catcher in the American Association last year, joined the White Sox toward the close of the season and at once became known as one of the best prospects in years. He has kept up his good work this spring.

Benz has been pitching for the White Sox a couple of years, gradually improving. This spring he seems to have come into his own. He showed great form against the Cleveland Naps in the second game of the season, and critics expect him to do far better than his 13 won and 17 lost of last season.

Benz and Schalk may yet take rank as one of the famous batteries.

MAT BOUT TOMORROW

CHICAGO, April 22.—All is in readiness for the Zbyszko-Le Marin Finish wrestling contest, which is to be held at the Coliseum tomorrow night. Zbyszko will enter the ring weighing 232, Le Marin at 234. The advance sale of seats indicates that a record crowd will be on hand to witness the contest. Added interest is centered in this match on account of Frank Gotch, the present title holder, who will be on hand to witness the battle.

COBB GIVES GROUND MAY ENTER FOLD

DETROIT, Mich., April 22.—Tyrus Raymond Cobb will arrive in Detroit either Thursday or Friday for a conference with President Nevin of the Tigers. Cobb is willing to make concessions to Tiger boss in regard to some of the differences which have been holding the two apart and it is understood that Nevin will also concede several disputed points in question.

These facts were gathered today from a source apparently reliable. Cobb is now in Atlanta, Ga., but his intimate friends here claim to have received word from him that he would leave for Detroit either today or tomorrow. Friends of both Cobb and Nevin predicted that the Georgian would make his 1913 appearance in a Tiger uniform within a week.

CHICAGO, April 22.—"We don't need Cobb and if he can get along without baseball the Detroit club can get along without his services." Manager Hughie Jennings of the Tigers made this statement today.

TINKER AFTER BEARS

CINCINNATI, O., April 22.—Either Suggs or Benton for the Reds and Richie for the Cubs are probable twirling selections for this afternoon. Manager Tinker may give his battering order a little shaking up in another effort to beat his former teammates.
